PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Philip W. Tone

Morris Harrell, whom I had the privilege of succeeding in August, has led the College with great distinction. His report as Immediate Past President appears elsewhere in this Bulletin. All of us are grateful to Morris and his wife Rusty for their dedicated service to the College.

1989 CHAIRMEN'S WORKSHOPS

During the fall we have held the State and Province Chairmen Workshops, as we have for almost a decade. The workshops, one in the West and one in the East, play an important role in the operation of the College and the maintenance of its standards. In the past, the focus of the workshops has been on the College nominating process for Fellows, the role of state committees in that process, and the planning and conduct of state and regional meetings. This year, for the first time, general committee chairmen attended the meeting, giving it an added dimension by their reports on the activities of their committees and the discussions generated by those reports.

NEW FALL ANNUAL MEETING OF ACTL

To assure that the very best trial lawyers in the profession are the ones elected to Fellowship, the American College of Trial Lawyers Bylaws provide that the number of Fellows in a state or province may not exceed more than one percent of the lawyers in that state or province. In all but a few states even this limit is not approached. Nevertheless, the Fellows of the College now number approximately 4,400.

As the College has grown larger, the importance of state and regional meetings of the Fellows as occasions for collegiality has increased. These meetings typically include excellent programs, often segments that qualify for CLE credit.

National meetings, however, remain an important part of the College's activities. Traditionally, the Annual Meeting of the Fellows and the Regents at which new Regents and the Officers are elected and installed has been held the Saturday in August before the commencement of the ABA Annual Meeting, and the College's annual black-tie dinner, at which nominees for Fellowship are inducted, has been held that Saturday night. In 1989, that format will be changed. The Fellows' Summer Banquet will still be held the Saturday night before the ABA meeting, but the induction of new Fellows and the Annual Meeting of the Fellows and the Regents will be held at a new fall meeting, which will also include a program and social activities similar to those at the Spring Meeting. The Spring Meeting will continue, with the same format it has had in the past.

Thus in 1989, the Spring Meeting will be held at Boca Raton, Florida, March 5 to 8; the Summer Banquet will be held Saturday, August 5, in Honolulu, Hawaii; and the Annual Meeting will be held November 2 to 5 in New Orleans, Louisiana. Both the spring and fall meetings will include programs with units that qualify for CLE credit. It is anticipated that this new format may result in attendance at each national meeting that is somewhat smaller than the Spring Meeting has usually enjoyed, but that more Fellows will find it possible to attend at least one of the national meetings.

DIVERSITY JURISDICTION

Turning to the business of the College, at its meeting in July, the Board of Regents adopted a resolution, communicated to the Congress, opposing the elimination of federal diversity jurisdiction, but expressing approval of proposals to increase the jurisdictional amount to $50,000. Proposed legislation that would have resulted in abolishing diversity jurisdiction for most cases was not adopted by the Congress. The bill containing the proposed jurisdictional amount increase to $50,000 has become law.

Limitations of space and of reader patience counsel against an attempt to report all of the valuable work of the general committees of the College, but the following are of special current interest.

FEDERAL JUDICIAL SALARIES

Federal judicial salaries are a continuing concern of the College. The next two months will bring a unique opportunity to achieve a substantial increase in these salaries. The quadrennial Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries held hearings on judicial salaries in Washington the week of November 7. A written submission on behalf of the College was made to the Commission, and I appeared before the Commission at its hearing on November 10 as the representative of the College. Strong presentations were made by a number of witnesses, and it appears that the Commission appreciates the importance of increasing judicial salaries to preserve the quality of our federal judiciary.

Pursuant to the recommendation of the College's Judiciary Committee, chaired by John W. Douglas, approved by the Executive Committee, the College supports the position of the Judicial Conference of the United States, which recommends salary increases ranging from $135,000 for a District Judge to $187,000 for the Chief Justice of the United States. (The present levels are $89,500 for a District Judge and $115,000 for the Chief Justice.) The procedure prescribed by statute calls for a report by the Commission to the President, who then includes his recommendation "with respect to the exact rates of pay he deems advisable" (2 U.S.C. § 358) in the budget he transmits to the Congress. Unless both houses of Congress adopt a joint resolution disapproving "any such recommendation" within 30 days, the recommendation becomes effective (§ 359). We are optimistic that the Commission's report will be favorable. We ask the Fellows of the College to urge the President not to cut the Commission's recommendations and to urge their Senators and Representatives to allow the President's recommendations to go into effect.

PUNITIVE DAMAGES STUDY

An important current project of the College is the study of punitive damages being conducted by the Committee on Special Problems in the Administration of Justice, chaired by Charles B. Renfrew. Punitive damages were the subject of a program at the last Spring Meeting, in which several members of the Committee appeared as panelists. The Committee hopes to have a report ready for presentation to the Board of Regents at its meeting next spring.

FEDERAL RULES OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

The Committee on Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, chaired by Harvey

M. Silets, continues to monitor the forfeiture of attorneys' fees under 21 U.S.C. § 853, and the operation of the Federal Sentencing Guidelines, the constitutionality of which has been the subject of numerous lower court decisions. The Supreme Court of the United States has granted review of cases in which the statute and the guidelines are challenged.

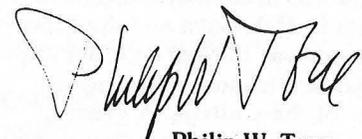

LEGAL ETHICS COMMITTEE

The Committee on Legal Ethics, under the chairmanship of William J. Brennan, III, has continued to monitor the developments in the several states with respect to the Model Rules of Professional Conduct adopted by the ABA in 1983 after a vigorous House of Delegates debate in which the College played an Important role. The House rejected the so-called Kutak proposal, which sought to greatly broaden the circumstances in which an attorney should reveal confidential communications from a client. The resulting version of Rule 1.6 limited the crimes that could be revealed to those likely to result in imminent death or substantial bodily harm to another. Only five states, however, have adopted ABA Model Rule 1.6 as written. Twenty-nine states have adopted versions that either permit or require a lawyer to divulge a confidence if necessary to prevent his client from committing an illegal act. The Committee on Legal Ethics is seeking the assistance of state chairmen in those jurisdictions that have yet to address the Model Rules in seeking the adoption of the ABA version of Rule 1.6. I have written a letter to the state chairmen asking for their assistance in supporting the ABA version and the response has been excellent. The Legal Ethics Committee stands ready to provide guidance.

ACTL GRANTS TO NITA AND NCDA

In furtherance of its goal of sustaining and improving the quality of trial advocacy, the College continues to provide substantial support to the National Institute for Trial Advocacy by providing funds for scholarships to lawyers in public positions or in public interest law who could not otherwise afford NITA training. The College also makes a substantial contribution to the National College of District Attorneys. By contributing both money and the time of Fellows who serve as judges of the competition, the College also supports the National Moot Court Competition and the National Trial Competition, both of which are participated in by many law schools throughout the United States.

I have already had the pleasure and privilege of being with many of you at College regional and state meetings, and I look forward to future meetings of this kind, which are an important part of the College's activities. An announcement and preview of the Spring Meeting at Boca Raton March 5 to 8 has been mailed. If you plan to attend, as I hope you will, I urge you to return your reservation and registration forms promptly.

Annual Report of the Immediate Past President

Morris Harrell

I had the great honor of becoming the President of the American College of Trial Lawyers on August 8, 1987. During the year that followed, my wife, Rusty, and I had the pleasure of attending many meetings throughout the United States and Canada. We enjoyed being with the Fellows and participating in the many activities of the College.

The first major events of the term were the meetings of the Canada-United States Legal Exchange. The United States team of judges and lawyers was headed by Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and the Canadian team was headed by Chief Justice Brian Dickson, an Honorary Fellow of the College. A greater knowledge and understanding of the judicial systems of the two countries and common problems and solutions have resulted from this program. Certainly a meaningful continuing relationship has resulted, evidenced by an alumni dinner during the Toronto meeting and the enthusiasm expressed for another exchange in the near future.

In the fall we held the State and Province Chairmen Workshops at the Biltmore in Phoenix, Arizona and at the Greenbrier in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. These workshops covered the procedures used in the nomination of Fellows process, the planning of State, Province, and Regional Meetings and other activities and the operation of the College office and the support of our fine and talented staff. My observation is that those who attend have renewed dedication to the College and enthusiasm regarding their very significant role.

During the past year, State, Province, and Regional Meetings were held. As the College grows in numbers, the importance of these meetings is accentuated. Some very fine professional programs are included at some of the gatherings and a genuine spirit of camaraderie is generated as we get to know each other better and expand our friendship.

The committees of the College have been busy this past year and my special thanks go to the committees and their chairmen. The College-sponsored National Moot Court Competition winning team from Georgia State University was honored at our Spring Meeting. At the Annual Meeting in Toronto we honored the winning team in the National Trial Competition, Chicago-Kent College of Law, and presented the Kraft Eidman Award to the winning law school and each member of the team, and the George A. Spiegelberg Award to Peter J. Roskam, who was judged to have presented the best oral argument. There was great competition for the Emil Gumpert Award for Excellence in Teaching Trial Advocacy. The Award was presented to the winner, New York University School of Law. The College committees on these activities are to be commended.

Other College committees that were particularly active include the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure Committee, chaired by Francis H. Fox, which communicated the College position to appropriate Congressional Committees regarding pending legislation that concerned the administration of justice. The Committee on Special Problems in the Administration of Justice, under the leadership of Charles B. Renfrew, has been active in the study of punitive damages. This committee has been working on a proposed policy statement that will meet the high standards of the College.

The 1988 Spring Meeting in Palm Desert, California was a huge success as more than 1,200 Fellows and spouses attended the meeting at the Marriott's Desert Springs Resort. An excellent professional program was arranged by Phil Tone including outstanding speakers on a variety of subjects. Educational programs on the subjects of Punitive Damages and Rule 11 and Professional Responsibility were of high quality and very well received. Certainly one of the highlights of the Desert Springs meeting was the address delivered by the Right Honourable, The Lord Griffiths of Govilon, MC. on the occasion of his induction as an Honorary Fellow of the College.

The year ended on a high note with the Annual Meeting and Banquet in Toronto, Canada. Hubert W. Green, Henry G. Miller and John A. Beck were elected to serve as Regents. Phil Tone became President, Ralph Lancaster our President-Elect. Charles Hanger continues to serve as Treasurer and Bill Egan became our Secretary. The thanks of all of us go to retiring Secretary and Regent Marvin Schwartz, and to retiring Regents John Arness and George Hewes.

The Annual Banquet in Toronto was a delightful and festive affair with more than one thousand in attendance. Honorable Lewis F. Powell, Jr. and a number of other distinguished guests from many other countries were with us. New Fellows were inducted and I transferred the maul of the College to Phil Tone. The College is in good and capable hands.

I want to acknowledge the fine work and exceptional contributions of our Executive Director, Bob Young and his staff and express my appreciation to them and to Rusty, who fulfilled her role as the President's wife with great spirit and vitality.

In summation, my gratitude cannot be adequately expressed for the honor of serving as President of the College and the wonderful experience you made possible for me.

In Memoriam
ALBERT E. JENNER, JR.

(1907 - 1988)

Bert Jenner, one of the first Regents and the Eighth President of the American College of Trial Lawyers (1958-59), died September 18, 1988. He is survived by his wife of more than fifty years, Nadine, and by his daughter, Cynthia Lee.

A graduate of the University of Illinois and its law school, he was a devoted and generous supporter of that institution in life and in death.

He joined the Chicago law firm to which he later gave his name, Jenner & Block, in 1934. He became a leader of his firm and of the Bar.

From the beginning, he combined an active trial practice with extraordinary service to the law and to the public. He began his long and remarkable service to the profession in the early nineteen-thirties with co-authorship of the Illinois Civil Practice Act, with writing on legal subjects and with teaching. During his fifty-seven years at the Bar, he was President not only of the American College of Trial Lawyers, but of the Illinois State Bar Association, the National Conference of Bar Association Presidents, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and the American Judicature Society, organizations he served for many years. He was a member of the American Bar Association House of Delegates for almost forty years, served on the ABA Board of Governors, and was Chairman of the ABA Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary during a critical period in that Committee's history. He was Chairman of the U. S. Supreme Court Advisory Committee on the Federal Rules of Evidence and a member of the U. S. Supreme Court Advisory Committee on the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. He was Senior Counsel to the Presidential Commission to Investigate the Assassination of President Kennedy (the Warren Commission). He was a member of the Presidential Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence in the United States (the Eisenhower Commission). His independence and his courage were never better exemplified than in his service as Chief Special Counsel to the Minority of the House of Representatives Judiciary Committee that conducted the impeachment inquiry regarding President Nixon. He concluded that impeachment was appropriate and as a consequence was removed as minority counsel, but continued to serve as counsel for the House Judiciary Committee until President Nixon resigned. The foregoing recital does not begin to exhaust the list of achievements in his remarkable career of service to the public and to his profession, which was recognized by honorary degrees awarded by his own University of Illinois, Northwestern University, the University of Michigan, Columbia College and several law schools.

His parallel career in private practice was equally distinguished. He represented major corporations, business and community leaders, and public bodies, and he also represented the humble, the unpopular and, indeed, the dispised, all with the same unswerving dedication.

In addition, he was a warm and generous human being, with many friends throughout the United States. His passing is a great loss to all who knew him, to his profession, and to his country.

College News

ELECTION OF NEW OFFICERS

New Officers of the College were elected at the recent Annual Meeting in Toronto, Ontario: Philip W. Tone, Chicago, Illinois, of the firm Jenner & Block, President; Ralph I. Lancaster, Jr., Portland, Maine, of Pierce, Atwood, Scribner, Allen, Smith & Lancaster, President-Elect; William T. Egan, Minneapolis, Minnesota, of the firm Rider, Bennett, Egan, & Arundel, Secretary; and Charles E. Hanger, San Francisco, California, of Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison, Treasurer.

Three new Regents were elected for four year terms. They are John A. Beck from the firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, Washington, D.C.; Hubert W. Green, San Antonio, Texas, of Green & McReynolds; and Henry G. Miller, White Plains, New York, from the firm of Clark, Gagliardi & Miller.

1989 ROSTER

The 1989 Roster of the College will be mailed to all Fellows in December. A new addition to this year's Roster will be the listing of the Nomination Procedures of the College. This new section will be found at the back of the Roster.

POLLS FOR NEW NOMINEES

November was the mailing date for confidential polls for new nominees. All polls should be completed and returned to the National Office of the College as promptly as possible. It is especially helpful to the Regents that any candid comments regarding nominees be included on the polls. Your votes and comments are always held in the strictest confidence.

1989 SPRING MEETING

The 1989 Spring Meeting will be held March 5-8 at the Boca Raton Hotel and Club, Boca Raton, Florida. Registration forms will be mailed to all Fellows in December. Please forward your hotel registration form directly to the Boca Raton Hotel and Club. ACTL registration forms should be sent to the National Office. Register early as space will be limited.

NATIONAL OFFICE

As a reminder, the National Office of the College relocated on June 1, 1988 to: 10866 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 570, Los Angeles, California 90024. Please note this change to insure that all correspondence reaches the National Office. The telephone number remains (213) 879-0143.
